April Meeting 2011

At the April meeting we got a chance to see how to make wood look a little less like wood. Bob Schmidt showed us metallic paints and patinization. Chad Gladhart got out one of his favorite tools, the torch to burn, brush, burnish and buff. Articles with descriptions of both of these embellishment techniques will show up on our website shortly.

May Meeting:

Jack Wayne, from Seattle will be demonstrating at the May meeting. Jack is a master turner and gifted teacher. He will show us how he makes a bowl from a board. On Friday, he will be in the Woodcraft classroom for an all-day hands-on workshop. The cost is $85 and will be limited to 8 members. Contact Pat Hickey or John Altberg to reserve a spot for Friday. Guarantee you'll learn something and have a good time doing it.

It's coming this Saturday!

The Great Russ Fairfield Memorial Tool Sale will be held at Russ' shop in Post Falls this coming Saturday, April 30. Be there at 9AM. If you read your email and newsletters you've seen the inventory and directions. Still have questions? Send me an email.

Members Gallery

Charlie showed us the Batty Bell Salt Shaker, John Goldsberry went home and made one. Beautiful big bowl by new member, Hayes Rutherford.

Dan Forman has been polishing his hollow form technique.

Flawless form and finish on Jim Christiansen's platters. The bowl (above right) was a first turning effort many years ago by Art Ross. He's recently joined the club and ready to try it again. Wood sculptures turned, cut, rotated, glued and reassembled (something like that) are the work of Jerry Decker, guest from TriCities. Very cool.

See you at the sale, sign up for the Jack Wayne demo, bring some wood for the raffle and, of course...have a wood day.
